Daniel Curley Found Guilty and Condemned to Death.

He Cries Out in a Loud Voice "God Save Ireland"—His Speech.

The Judge's Charge and Denial of the Prisoner—How the Sentence Was Received.

Spanish Dynamite Explosion—France and a Monarchy—Foreign Notes.

DUBLIN, April 18.—On the resumption of the trial of Daniel Curley this morning Mr. Adams began his argument for the defense. He declared that the evidence given by Kavanagh, the car driver, did not show that Curley was in Phoenix park on May 6. His presence there, said Mr. Adams, was indicated by James Carey, who said Curley was in command, but Carey so swore to save his own neck. He was doubtful in command himself of the assassins.

Mr. Porter, attorney general for Ireland, replied on behalf of the crown. He declared that the evidence offered by the defense in support of an alibi for Curley was worthless and conflicting. He pointed out that, though Peter Hanlon had professed to have been in Curley's company for the four hours covering the time the assassinations took place and claimed that during the time he met various persons, the defense had produced but one of those persons. One of the defendant's witnesses, said Mr. Porter, swore that Curley was in a saloon at the same time that Hanlon testified Curley was at another place. After Mr. Porter had concluded his argument the judge delivered his charge to the jury. His remarks were strongly against the reliability of the evidence to prove an alibi. He pointed out that there could not be the slightest doubt that the murders were perpetrated at the instigation of secret societies with which the prisoner was indisputably connected. The charge was completed at 2:30 o'clock, and the jury retired immediately. They were absent but a short time, and on their return to the court room, announced that they found Curley guilty as charged in the indictment.

The prisoner, on being asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him, said that he had not expected any mercy from the court. It was very unfortunate, he said, that the Irish bench was never without a Norbury or a Keogh. He admitted that he was a member of the Invincibles, but declared that he was not in Phoenix park on the evening the murders were committed. Curley said that he loved his country, and could suffer for her. He declared that the witnesses who had testified for the crown had perjured themselves. He also said that he was a Fenian. After the prisoner had finished his speech he was sentenced to be hanged on the eighth of May. As the officers were taking the prisoner from the dock he cried out in a loud voice, "God save Ireland!"

A NUT FOR FRANCE TO CRACK.

LONDON, April 18.—The Daily News, in a leading article, says that in the event of the affair with China involving France in a war with China it is understood that France will confine herself to blockading Chinese ports, as she is well aware of the difficulties of an expedition to Peking. The News adds: It will be a very serious matter to stop trade between China, America, England, and Germany, and it will be worth while for France to consider whether Prince Bismarck will submit to such action.

FRANCE AND A MONARCHY.

BERLIN, April 18.—The Norddeutsche Zeitung, replying to comments of the French press on an article which it published recently, says that if the monarchy should be restored in France it is not very likely that Germany would declare war against the former country forthwith. She would prefer to wait until, as under certain conditions the restored monarchy could probably be induced to declare war on Germany without a warning.

A SCANDAL IN A PARLIAMENT.

PESH, April 18.—A great scandal has been created in the lower house of the diet by Deputy Fuzessy, who declared that a member of that body was connected with a gang of foreign thieves who have been operating in Pesh. Herr Polony, who has been employed as a lawyer investigating the doings of this gang, denied that any member of the chamber was connected with them. Herr Fuzessy subsequently admitted that he had been wrongly informed, and apologized to the house.

How Ellen Halliday Died.

TAUNTON, Mass., April 18.—Ellen Halliday, aged 65 years, was found dead in her house in East Taunton this morning, with indications that she had been murdered. She was lying with her head in a tin basin and surrounded by pools of blood and with a hole in her forehead. William Flynn was found in an adjoining room severely cut in the forehead, and his story is that Timothy, aged 19 and John, aged 22, the sons of the murdered woman, were engaged in an altercation last evening, when he interfered, and was struck on the head by Timothy with a chair. The boys put him in bed, and the last he remembers was the old woman standing over him and trying to stanch the flow of blood. He was awakened at 3 o'clock this morning by John, who said his mother was dead. Both sons said they were away from home all night, but told conflicting stories as to their whereabouts. All the parties have been arrested and held for examination.

An autopsy on the body of Ellen Halliday shows that death was caused by suffocation. The inference is that she rolled from a lounge, striking her forehead on the basin, which caused the wound, and that she was either stunned or too drunk to raise her head from the basin and was smothered.

A Camp of Southern Soldiers.

RICHMOND, Va., April 18.—The first veteran organization of ex-confederate soldiers was perfected here to-night by the election of Capt. Charles M. Williams as commander. The name adopted is the E. E. Lee Camp, No. 1, of Southern Veterans. The association promises to be one of extent and growth. Thousands of old soldiers being willing to enroll their names. A committee to draft by-laws and adopt a suitable uniform has been appointed.

The New York Gamblers Dismissed.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The gamblers of this city are utterly astounded and dismayed. Acting on the advice of Recorder Smyth that he could confiscate gambling apparatus, and under warrants issued by magistrate, Inspector Byrnes made another raid on gambling houses this evening. Seven were visited. From five it was found that all the gaming paraphernalia had been secretly removed. In two only were furniture found and seized, its value aggregating $1,500. No arrests were made. Inspector Byrnes says he intends to follow the gamblers until they are cleaned out. He guaranteed that there was not a game open in the city to-night. In most of the houses the furniture has been secretly removed and the rooms left bare. The captured property will be broken up.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Liquor Elections in Illinois—The Deadlock, and Other Matters.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Throughout Illinois yesterday forty-eight cities and towns voted upon the liquor question. In balloting for prohibition or anti-liquor, thirty-one declared for license, six of which were for high license, and four towns ignored the saloon question and voted on straight political issues. SPRINGFIELD, ILL., April 18.—The deadlock in the Illinois house of representatives over the Bradwell and McNeill contests, which the republicans confidently expected would end to-day, still continues. Seventy-seven are required for a quorum, and Mr. Roark, a republican, although present in the lobby, refrained from answering the roll call, and other republican members being paired, no quorum was possible, and, as the democrats failed to vote, only seventy-five answered the roll. It is now asserted that Mr. Roark will decline to assist in seating Bradwell, and the struggle appears to be interminable.

HARRISBURG, PA., April 18. The senate this afternoon passed a bill making general election day a legal holiday; also a bill preventing the consolidation of competing pipe lines for the transportation of oil. SPRINGFIELD, ILL., April 18. In the senate to-day the "bucketshop" bill, by which it was sought to compel the Chicago board of trade to furnish outside grain speculating rooms with market quotations, was killed. NEWPORT, R. I., April 18.—The municipal election here to-day resulted in the re-election of Mayor Robert S. Franklin (republican) by 251 majority, the vote standing: Franklin, 939; Slocum, (democrat), 658.

Senator Colquhoun's Half Brother.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—In January last a man who gave his name as Andrew Colquhoun was arrested here while attempting to dispose of a watch which bore the inscription: "Presented by the President of the United States to Peter Kerr for rescuing the crew of the ship Thomas Freeman, 1870." Kerr was captain of the brig Gem, which a short time previous had been at New York, and on which Colquhoun had been employed as steward. To-day the police authorities received a communication from Capt. Kerr, dated Santos, Brazil, in which he states that the watch was stolen from him by Colquhoun, and that he would arrive here shortly. Colquhoun, who claims to be a half brother of ex-Gov. Colquhoun of Georgia, was to receive a penalty for an infringement of a copyrighted photograph of the baby elephant. A number of law points were reserved.

The Baby Elephant's Picture.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 18.—In the United States district court to-day the jury in the case of Schreiber & Sons, who sued for themselves as well as for the government, against Edward B. Thornton, general manager for Charles L. Sharpless, deceased, returned a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $14,000. The suit was to recover a penalty for an infringement of a copyrighted photograph of the baby elephant. A number of law points were reserved.

Harry, while en route on the St. Francis river for Cairo with 16,000 feet of walnut lumber, struck a reef at 1 o'clock this morning at Dean's Island, forty miles above Memphis, and sank. The boat is valued at $5,000, and insured for $5,000. The wrecking steamer Eckert has gone to the scene of the disaster. No lives were lost.

Not the Richmond Jesse.

RICHMOND, VA., April 18.—A special received here to-day from Decatur, Ala., stated that the Jesse Campbell arrested there for committing a horrible double murder was not the Jesse Campbell who left this city a few weeks ago for Decatur. The mother of young Campbell, who had hailed the arrest as a better to-day. The telegram in the associated press of Monday shocked her so it was thought that she would not recover.

Died in Executing Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 18.—David Schlosser, aged 4 years, died here this morning from the effects of drinking oxalic acid. The child's father, who is a saloon keeper, used the acid for cleaning eggshells, and during his absence yesterday the child procured the bottle and drank the contents. The boy suffered excruciating pain up to the time of his death.

The Floods in Virginia.

NORFOLK, Va., April 18.—Farmers from the trucking districts report the extraordinary rainfall yesterday and the day before did considerable damage to the crops in some sections. The flat lands are under water twelve inches, and the roads were submerged and bridges carried away.

The home office has issued a circular directing the attention of the local authorities to the importance of vigilant observation in order to prevent persons getting possession of explosives and materials from which explosives are made.

The statements that Mr. Thomas Power O'Connor would assume the whip of the Irish parliamentary party vacated by Mr. Richard Power is incorrect. Mr. Edward Shell, member for Moath, has undertaken the duties of that position.

DANGLED UNTIL DEAD.

Hanging of James Treglow, the New Jersey Murderer—Scenes at the Scaffold.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 18.—James Treglow was hanged in the county jail yard in this city this morning at 10:30 o'clock for the murder of Minnie Chirgwin at Port Oran Tuesday, June 20, 1882. The prisoner passed a sleepless night, though he appeared to be in a cheerful mood this morning. His spiritual advisers, Rev. J. B. Faulk, of the Methodist Episcopal church of this place, and Rev. Joseph P. McCauley, of the Methodist church at Port Oran, of which Minnie Chirgwin was an active member, visited his cell at an early hour and read the scriptures and prayed and sang with the condemned man, who seemed to feel his condition deeply, and who was very calm and ready to die. His last words were: "I am going to heaven before noon. My letter to my mother, sisters, and brothers in Cornwall, England, were read to him, and he dictated a few more lines and then sealed them. He also bequeathed a few keepsakes to those who had befriended him. The sheriff entered his cell at 10:15 o'clock and read the death warrant. Treglow bade Sheriff Howell an affectionate farewell, kissing him, shook hands with the constables, and walked from the cell to the gallows, a distance of fifty feet, with a firm step, and his position under the gallows from which he was to die. His arms and feet were pinioned, the black cap drawn over his face, the noose adjusted, and after a few prayers offered by the Rev. Mr. Faulk, the executioner pressed the spring with his foot, and the body of James Treglow shot up in the air and fell down five feet six inches. Death was almost instantaneous, there being very few movements of the limbs after the weight fell. The body was taken down in twelve minutes, and given in charge of the Rev. Mr. McCauley, who had filed the necessary bonds which the law requires to insure a private burial. It was then placed in a rosewood coffin and driven to Dover, where it will be interred in a grave close to where his victim lies. Treglow was nearly dressed in a black suit, with black slippers, and was calm to the last, his lips moving in prayer. The gallows were brought from the Essex county jail, and were put up by Executioner James Van Hise, who had hanged seventeen persons on them previous to today. They were erected only three feet and six inches in height, and had a smooth, boyish face, with a not over bright expression. His aged mother, three brothers, and three sisters live in Cornwall, England, and an elder brother, Harry, living here, whom he loved dearly, they were permitted only three minutes to say their last words. The gallows were erected by Sheriff Howell, to whom he seemed deeply attached. He smoked nearly all the time while awake and seemed to feel relieved after the gallows were erected. Last night was made public.

The arrangements for the execution made by Sheriff Howell were perfect, and everything passed off smoothly. A guard of fifty soldiers from the Grand Army post of this place patrolled the court house grounds since early in the morning, and permitted only those to pass who had tickets signed by Sheriff Howell. Three members of the prisoner's family, two clergymen, and others, making thirty-seven in all, witnessed the execution, which took place in a rough shed erected in an angle of the jail yard, and which prevented all view from the outside. The prisoner's confession, as telegraphed last night, is generally thought to be the correct version of the murder.

AFTER THE APACHES.

Tracking the Murderers of the McComas Family—Gen. Crook's Movements.

TUCSON, ARIZ., April 18.—A dispatch from Calabasas last night states that a prospector was chased to within three miles of that place last evening. The town was surrounded last night by camp fires, and signaling had been going on throughout yesterday from the surrounding mountains. The citizens are nervous, and are watching the movements of the train from Camp Huachuca in on its way with troops. Capt. Black and his rangers arrived there yesterday. He says they traced the Indians who killed the McComas family into the Sierra Madre mountains near Chihuahua. The Indians, who got in sight of their camp in a deep cañon, counted sixty-two warriors, and observed a large amount of plunder and a great many animals. They reported this discovery to Capt. Black, but as the rangers numbered only twenty-five, they were unable to follow them. The El Paso (Texas) Times says editorially: "Gen. Crook will have supreme command, both of the American and the Mexican troops, and will enlist one hundred and fifty San Carlos Apaches. He will move into Sonora, and a most vigorous campaign will be immediately commenced. Both the American and Mexican officers believe that the annihilation of the hostiles will also make peace possible."

Philadelphia Frauds.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—At the hearing before the examiner in the equity suit against the trustees of the Philadelphia gas works to-day Cashier White testified that the alms-house authorities owed the city $4,702 for gas used in past years. He said that his predecessor, Benjamin S. Riley, embezzled from the trust $23,913. Riley was discharged and died soon after. In 1870 he began to reimburse the trust, and after he died his administrators continued the payments. They ranged from $34 up to $15,416 in single payments. The witness also said that when Mr. Craig was trustee he furnished all the whiskey consumed at the office, and that William L. Hirst and Richard Ludlow had attended to the legal business of the trust while members, and were paid for their labors.

Horrible Death of a Child.

RICHMOND, Va., April 18.—A two-year-old daughter of James Batkins, who lives on Monroe and Grace streets, was run over by a passing wagon to-day and instantly killed. The little child was playing in the street at the time. The wagon was loaded with lumber and was drawn by two horses.

The wheel passed over her neck, breaking it, while another crushed in her breast. James Harris, colored, the driver, was subsequently arrested.

Making a Railway Company Pay.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—A partial settlement was effected to-day between the financial officers of this state and the Reading railway company of indebtedness due on the state's interest in the Susquehanna and Tidewater canal, operated by that road. The state of Maryland is entitled to $60,000 per annum interest, but there has been several years' default on scrip issued for interest up July 1, 1879. To-day the railway company paid $36,000 on a portion of the scrip, and there yet remains a considerable indebtedness.

FIERCE FLAMES.

A Warehouse Suddenly Destroyed that the Workmen Barely Escaped—Several Severely Injured—Other Fires.

Special Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, KANS., April 18.—A fire in a large warehouse here caused much damage. Several persons were injured, some of them, it is feared, fatally. The fire was started by a spark from the engine room, which fell in a room filled with shavings. A strong wind caused the flames to spread rapidly from one floor to another, so that by the time the engineer discovered it the entire building was filled with fire. There were forty-five men at work in the building at the time. It was necessary for the engineer to run from one department to another to warn the men individually of their danger. While he was doing so George Snyder was forced to jump, with several others, from a second story window. In falling Snyder struck the sidewalk on his feet, but with such force as to cause his body to sink between his legs. His recovery is doubtful. His companions were all dangerously, and it is thought fatally, hurt. Their names are: John Beal, a carver, hurt internally; William Osborne, body badly crushed and left limb broken; V. J. Westerman, arm broken; D. Anderson, a helper of the proprietor, injured internally; George Braughman, arm dislocated. During the fire a horse cart ran over a little girl, named Mamie Fries, and bruised her so badly that it is feared she will not recover.

OTHER FIRES.

A fire at the village of Kataw-Ivanoski, in the government of Orenburg, Russia, yesterday destroyed 500 dwelling houses, the telegraph station, postoffice, a number of stores, a large quantity of coal and wood, and much mining property.

Verlander, store and dwelling, $15,000; Smith & Davis, drug store and dwelling, $5,000. Twenty families are made homeless.

THE MERIDA'S MISTAKE.

Sinking a Schooner and Then Running Away from Her—Details of the Wreck.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The brig Robert Dillon, which arrived to-day from Port Royal, had on board the captain and crew of the schooner Mary J. Russell, which she fell in with in a water-logged condition, having been sunk by the steamer City of Merida. Capt. Geo. W. Steadman, of the Russell, reported: Left Jacksonville, bar April 6 with lumber for Leesburg, N. J. All went well until about 1 a. m. April 11, when the vessel was, by reckoning, in latitude 30° 15', longitude 74° 50'; wind fresh from the northwest, moderate to strong, and the vessel clear to see vessel's light at a distance of about a mile. Our vessel was under reefed sails on the port tack, heading about north-northeast; saw a steady light and green light of a steamer on our starboard quarter, steering as we crossed her stern. When near the schooner the steamer suddenly showed her red light and shut in the green, soon after striking the schooner on the starboard rigging, fore-top mast and jib boom, fore boom and gaff, foremast and mainmast broke and tumbled, mast, pulling out chain bolts, and evidently doing serious damage under water. Halted the steamer, which proved to be the City of Merida, of New York, and requested that she should lay by us, but received no reply. After getting clear the steamer stopped and threw a bright light upon the schooner, apparently to see what damage had been done, and then steamed away. Our vessel filled in four hours with all hands pumping constantly, and we then threw overboard as much of the deck load as we could, and tried to wear her around, head in shore, but all our efforts were in vain. The only part of the vessel not submerged was the top of the cabin house, upon which we all remained until the afternoon of the twelfth, when taken off by the tug Robert Dillon and brought to this port. My crew and myself were treated with the utmost kindness and consideration by Capt. Sanford, his officers, and crew, and we hereby tender them our sincere thanks.

Graduated respectively seventy-seven and twenty-five members, but the classes have been reduced in numbers since by reason of death and resignation.

Private Marine McDougal, of the naval academy, is under treatment for a severe injury, received lately while playing base ball.

The Presidential Party.

JACKSONVILLE, April 18.—President Arthur left St. Augustine at daybreak this morning on the steamer Tallapoosa. He says his stay at Savannah will be brief. The President did not go fishing at St. Augustine. The weather was fine and he found opportunity for rest. He felt much improved in health and spirits.

Wrecked by a Cow.

RICHMOND, Va., April 18.—A special telegram received in this city to-day says a freight train on the Richmond and Danville railway struck a cow near the 2933 mile post, between High Point and Jamestown, in North Carolina, this morning, causing the locomotive to jump the track. Engineer John T. Gale, who lives at Cloven, Va., was killed. The fireman and a train hand were badly injured. Eighteen freight cars were wrecked and the track was torn up for a quarter of a mile. Trains were unable to pass to-day on that division.

MORE THAN MUSKRATS.

A Scare at Ottawa—Movements to Protect the Governor General and the Princess Louise.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 18.—Four shots were fired at a policeman on duty at Rideau hall about midnight last night. A detachment of Toronto police were on duty there and they dared not leave the building as it was thought the shots were intended as a decoy. After firing the individual took to the bush and has not yet been captured. An extra guard was on duty at the time and it was subsequently strengthened.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The chief of the Dominion police says there is nothing in the story about the guard at the government quarters being fired at this morning. Some shots were heard in the distance by the policeman on duty in Rideau hall grounds, but that was all. It was probably men shooting muskrats in Rideau river.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The strange occurrence at Rideau hall last night is the general topic of conversation to-day. In some quarters it creates uneasiness; in others it is regarded as a hoax. Circumstances, however, do not bear out the latter theory, for it is fair to assume that no sane person would invade grounds guarded by armed men, empty four barrels muskrats, which are plentiful in the vicinity of the government house and Lieutenant Col. De Winton's residence, followed in quick succession by three other shots. Geddes rushed toward the grove and saw a tall man retreating. He took to North Adams for a hearing this morning. He was arraigned on a charge of murder and pleaded not guilty. He was committed to jail without bail to await his hearing on Monday. Savage died with his family around his bedside. He hoped God would forgive him (Savage) for all he had done.

She Did not Poison Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 18.—The coroner to-day began an investigation into the cause of the death of James G. Morris, which occurred in February, 1882. The investigation was made upon the affidavit of the father of deceased, who declared that his son's widow had confessed to him that she had poisoned her husband. The father failed to testify to-day. Anna Morris, the accused widow, denied the statements of her father-in-law, and Prof. Reese, who made a chemical analysis of the stomach and brain of the deceased, testified that he had made various tests and found no evidence of poison. The jury gave a verdict of death from gastric fever, in accordance with the physician's certificate at the time of death.

Forgave His Murderer.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 18.—A special dispatch to the Union says K. A. Savage, who was shot at Adams on Wednesday by James Barrett, died this morning. Barrett was arrested on a new warrant for murder, and taken to North Adams for a hearing this morning. He was arraigned on a charge of murder and pleaded not guilty. He was committed to jail without bail to await his hearing on Monday. Savage died with his family around his bedside. He hoped God would forgive him (Savage) for all he had done.

A Rich Man Dying.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 18.—James Park, jr., proprietor of the Black Diamond Steel works, one of the richest and most influential men in the city and one of the most prominent manufacturers of the United States, is dying. A Murder in New York.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Joseph Gunelli, an Italian, and Frank Cassidy, an Irishman, two laborers, while at work on the third floor of the new storage warehouse at Thirtieth avenue and Hellgate street, this afternoon quarreled. In the course of the quarrel Cassidy, it is alleged, struck Gunelli a powerful blow, knocking him through the elevator hole to the ground below. The unfortunate man was instantly killed.
